HISTORIC SITE SUMMARY SHEET

Survey # 74A-8 Building Date c. 1901
Building Name Mullikin/Bowie House & Meathouse (Mount Oak)
Location 2804 Church Road, Mitchellville, Maryland
Open to Public: Yes ☒ No Occupied: Yes ☒ No Use Private Residence

Architectural Description:

The early 20th century Mullikin/Bowie House has a commanding location on a hill overlooking Church Road. It is a two-story, five-bay by one-bay frame dwelling with a two-story, three-bay by one-bay kitchen ell. It rests on a poured concrete foundation, is covered with german siding (painted white), and has a hip roof. A two-story bay window covers the south end of the main block. The principal facade faces east. The roofline on this facade is broken by a central cross gable. The central entrance has a four-paneled door with a narrow, single-paned transom and is flanked by narrow, paneled side panels surmounted by narrow, single-paned sidelights. A one-story porch with a hip roof covers the central three bays of the main facade. It is supported by elegant, narrow squared columns with capitals marked only by a simple molding.

There are three interior brick chimneys - two placed on either side of a central staircase in the main block and one placed towards the rear of the ell.

The interior plan has a central staircase with one room on either side. All interior moldings are simple with bulls-eye corner blocks.

There are several outbuildings associated with this site, including a meathouse, two machine sheds, a corn crib, two small buildings, and three barns.

The meathouse is the most significant of the outbuildings. It is a small gable roofed frame structure with an entrance in the east gable end. The framing consists of numerous studs, placed approximately three inches apart and set into sills, which are laid directly on the ground.

Significance: The Mullikin/Bowie House is significant as an intact example of a typical early twentieth century vernacular farmhouse. It is believed to be a mail-order house, possibly Sears and Roebuck, a highly popularized method of construction in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. The meathouse, which predates the house, is also notable for its method of construction. The framing consists of numerous studs, placed approximately three inches apart in order to discourage theivery.

Both the house and meathouse are significant for their setting; situated on a hill, historically known as "Mount Oak," the farm with its impressive view across the countryside, has served as a community landmark.

And finally, the house and meathouse are important for their association with the Mullikins and Bowies, prominent families in Prince George's County history.

Prepare both a summary paragraph and a general description of the resource and its various elements as it exists today.

The early 20th century Mullikin/Bowie House has a commanding location on a hill overlooking Church Road. It is a two-story, five-bay by one-bay frame dwelling with a two-story, three-bay by one-bay kitchen ell. It rests on a poured concrete foundation, is covered with german siding (painted white), and has a hip roof. A two-story bay window covers the south end of the main block. The principal facade faces east. The roofline on this facade is broken by a central cross gable. The central entrance has a four-paneled door with a narrow, single-paned transom and is flanked by narrow, paneled side panels surmounted by narrow, single-paned sidelights. A one-story porch with a hip roof covers the central three bays of the main facade. It is supported by elegant, narrow squared columns with capitals marked only by a simple molding. A one-story enclosed porch fills the northeast corner, between the ell and the main block. It has a shed roof and is covered with narrow weatherboard siding.

The windows are all 2/2 sash except for one 6/6 sash window on the east elevation of the enclosed porch. All windows have simplified molded surrounds.

The hip roof and the enclosed porch shed roof are covered with standing seam metal which appears to have been tarred.

There are three interior brick chimneys - two placed on either side of a central staircase in the main block and one placed towards the rear of the ell.

The only cellar area of the house extends approximately one-half of the way under the ell. It is reached through a covered entrance at the rear, north elevation of the ell.

The interior plan has a central staircase with one room on either side. The staircase rises to a landing at the one-half story level, makes a 90° turn and continues to the second story. It has a simple turned balustrade and a plain, square newel post ornamented by a simple shield relief design.

The chimneys in the main block service two fireplaces in the first story rooms. They are adorned with typical wooden mantels. A large built-in cupboard is situated next to the fireplace in the south, or bay window room. The kitchen ell is reached through an entrance from this room. A long narrow pantry lies between the bay window room and the kitchen. Both the pantry and the kitchen have beaded wainscoting. The enclosed porch is reach from the kitchen. The exterior siding is visible in the enclosed porch. It is painted yellow, possibly the original color of the house.

All interior moldings are simple with bulls-eye corner blocks.

Prepare both a summary paragraph of significance and a general statement of history and support.

Summary Paragraph

The Mullikin/Bowie House is significant as an intact example of a typical early twentieth century vernacular farmhouse. The house is believed to be a mail-order, possible Sears and Roebuck, a highly popularized method of construction in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries.<sup>1</sup> The interior and exterior finishings would support this theory. The meathouse, which predates the house, is also notable for its method of construction. The framing consists of numerous studs, placed approximately three inches apart in order to discourage thievery.<sup>2</sup>

Both the house and meathouse are significant for their setting: situated on a hill, historically known as "Mount Oak", the farm with its impressive view across the Countryside, has served as a community landmark.

And finally, the house and meathouse are important for their association with the Mullikins and Bowies, prominent families in Prince George's County history.

History and Support

The Mullikin/Bowie House was constructed in c. 1901 on land owned by Corrilla Weems Mullikin.<sup>3</sup> It replaced an earlier house which burned in that year.<sup>4</sup> The earlier house was the property of John Beanes Mullikin, the son of James Mullikin V of "Mullikins Delight", a prominent family in Prince George's County.<sup>5</sup> The property, part of "Mount Oak" was acquired by Corrilla Weems Mullikin from the will of her father, John Beanes Mullikin, who died in 1862.<sup>6</sup>

Corrilla Mullikin deeded this property (117 8/10 acres) to her nephew, John Mullikin Bowie, in 1904, for whom the present house is associated with.<sup>7</sup> The meat-house appears to date from the earlier farm of John B. Mullikin. Based on the 1910 Federal Census, Corrilla Mullikin, aged 66, was living with her nephew, John Bowie, aged 40, and family of four.<sup>8</sup>

There are several outbuildings associated with this site, the most interesting being the meathouse. It is a small gable roofed frame structure with an entrance in the east gable end. The sills of this structure are laid directly on the ground and are mortise and tenoned at the corners and secured with unusually large pegs. The plates are lapped at the corners. The numerous studs are placed approximately three inches apart and are supported with diagonal bracings running from the sills to the cornerposts. The exterior is covered with wide riven cypress siding. The floor is dirt.

The remaining outbuildings are frame and consist of: two machine sheds, one corn crib, two small buildings, one barn in the process of construction (1983), one 19th century barn (in ruins), and one large early 20th century barn, which was used as a tobacco barn and includes a small drying room wing.

The Mullikin/Bowie House and Meathouse outbuildings presently lie within the potential 245.60 acre Mt. Oak Estates and development plan area. The present owner of the house, Dan Melvin, has obtained six acres surrounding the house and some of the outbuildings. The remaining lots, not yet developed, are proposed to be five acres in size.
